

Audiescreen documents and versions

The documents that make up your AudieScreen contract, and every version of each

Each document shows its version number and the date it took effect. We never edit a published version: when something changes, we publish a new version and keep the earlier ones here.

What your school agrees to

When you order, you tick one box to accept four documents: the Subscription Terms, the Product and Support Schedule, the Data Processing Addendum and the Authorised User Terms. If you also buy a lockdown push button, the same box accepts a fifth, the Hardware Terms.

Four published policies also form part of your contract, because the Subscription Terms refer to them: the Fair Use Policy, the Supported Platform List, the Subprocessor Notice and the Privacy Information. You do not tick these separately.

Which version applies to your school

The versions your school accepted are listed in your Subscription Confirmation. The policies in force at the start of each subscription year apply for that year.

How we tell you about changes

What changes	When it applies to your school	How we tell you
Subscription Terms, Product and Support Schedule, Data Processing Addendum	From your next renewal, unless the law requires it sooner	With your renewal reminder, at least 90 days before, with the new versions and a short summary of what has changed
A policy change that is neutral or better for your school	When published	Listed on this page
A policy change that reduces what you receive or adds to what you must do	At least 30 days after we tell you	By email, with a summary
A new company that handles school data	After at least 30 days' notice, during which you can object	By email
Authorised User Terms, material change	When each person next signs in	Each person is asked to accept the new version

We send these notices to your school's contact, to the invoice email address if you gave one, and to your administrators in Control.
